

TEMPTED TO CHEAT TO GET YOUR ASSIGNMENT DONE?

Paying an 'essay mill' or getting a friend to write an assignment which you submit as your own work is known as contract cheating.

This is serious academic misconduct and you risk:

- Expulsion from your institution
- Damaging your long-term career prospects
- Failing your module

Often the quality of the essay you receive will be poor, and you may end up paying a lot more than intended for sub-standard work.

SO WHY TAKE THE RISK?

If you are worried about completing your assignment on time, or are tempted to cheat, take a look at our guidance leaflet for advice on who can help. You will also find information on what to do if you think a fellow student might be cheating and the best way to raise any concerns.

