

IQER dominoes

Introduction

- 1 The game is designed to introduce players to the key elements of the IQER process.
- 2 It can be used at the start of a briefing session as an ice-breaker and to identify points for clarification.

Instructions

- 3 Players should be asked to work in groups of (ideally) three or four and given the following instructions:
 - there are 20 'dominoes'. Check that there are 20 pieces before you start or the game will not work!
 - each domino has an answer on the left (white) and a question on the right (purple). They are unrelated
 - start with any question and find the correct answer on the left of another domino
 - build into a line/square/rectangle. If all your answers are correct, the final question and first answer will correspond.
